

Jacob Zellmer

Department of Philosophy
University of California San Diego
Arts and Humanities Building
9500 Gilman Drive, #0119
La Jolla, CA 92093-0119
jzellmer@ucsd.edu
jacobzellmer.weebly.com

AREA OF SPECIALIZATION

Early Modern Philosophy

AREAS OF COMPETENCE

Epistemology, Philosophy of Religion, Social Philosophy (incl. race)

EDUCATION

- | | |
|---|---------------|
| University of California, San Diego , PhD in Philosophy
Dissertation: Inscribed in our Hearts': Spinoza on Religion and Rationality
Committee: Donald Rutherford (chair), Samuel Rickless, Clinton Tolley,
Kristin Primus (UC Berkeley), John H. Evans | 2017-Present |
| Princeton University, Visiting Student Research Collaborator
Advisor: Daniel Garber | Spring 2023 |
| Erasmus University Rotterdam, Visiting Fellow
Advisor: Wiep van Bunge | July-Dec 2022 |
| San Francisco State University , MA in Philosophy | 2017 |
| Azusa Pacific University , BA in Biblical Studies, cum laude
Minor in philosophy
Associated Student at St. Catherine's College, Oxford (Michaelmas 2011) | 2013 |

PUBLICATIONS:

1. "La Peyrère's Polygenism and Human Species Hierarchy," Journal of the History of Philosophy (forthcoming)
2. "Descartes on Certainty in Deduction," Studies in History and Philosophy of Science (forthcoming)

MANUSCRIPTS UNDER REVIEW:

1. "Polygenism, or how the human origin story got coopted in racial science," (under contract)

2. A paper on early modern philosophy of language
3. A paper on early modern political philosophy

IN PREPARATION FOR SUBMISSION:

1. “What Philosophy and Theology Have in Common for Spinoza” (dissertation ch. 1)
2. “Rethinking Spinoza’s ‘Dogmatism’” (dissertation ch. 3)
3. “Capitein on Christianity and Slavery”

PRESENTATIONS

Refereed:

- | | | |
|-----|--|------------|
| 15. | “What Philosophy and Theology Have in Common for Spinoza”
North American Spinoza Society – Junior Scholar Event
Commentator: Julie Klein | May 2024 |
| 14. | “La Peyrère’s Polygenism and Human Species Hierarchy”
University of San Diego – Renaissance Conference of Southern California | Sep 2023 |
| 13. | “Spinoza on the Natural Light”
University of Groningen – Collegium Spinozanum IV | July 2023 |
| 12. | “Spinoza on Philosophical Language”
University of Toronto – History & Philosophy of Science/Tech Grad Conference | May 2023 |
| 11. | “What Philosophy and Theology Have in Common for Spinoza”
Princeton University – Philosophy, Religion, & Existential Commitment | March 2023 |
| 10. | “Reconceiving Spinoza’s Dogmatism”
American Philosophical Association (Central Division) – Denver, CO | Feb 2023 |
| 9. | “Paths to God in Spinoza”
Radboud University Nijmegen – Passions and the Mystical Conference | Dec 2022 |
| 8. | “Spinoza and the Problem of Imperfect Rationality”
University College, Dublin – Early Moderns on the Power of Philosophy | Oct 2022 |
| 7. | “Paths to God in Spinoza”
Oriel College, Oxford – European Society for Philosophy of Religion | Sep 2022 |
| 6. | “Did Spinoza Interpret Scripture Dogmatically?”
University of Bologna – European Academy of Religion | June 2022 |
| 5. | “Reconceiving Spinoza’s Dogmatism”
Princeton University – Philosophy of Religion Incubator II | May 2022 |
| 4. | “Spinoza and the Problem of Imperfect Rationality”
Princeton-Bucharest Seminar in Early Modern Philosophy | April 2021 |
| 3. | “Spinoza on Language, Knowledge, and Geometric Method”
Stanford University – Math and Numerical Inspirations in Philosophy | April 2020 |
| 2. | “Spinoza on the Separation of Philosophy and Theology” | |

- University of Queensland – Australasian Seminar in Modern Philosophy Nov 2019
 1. “The derivation of Spinoza’s conatus doctrine”
University of Groningen – Collegium Spinozanum III July 2019

Invited:

5. “Capitein on Christianity and Slavery”
UC San Diego – Graduate Philosophy Colloquium upcoming June 2024
 4. “Spinoza on the Natural Light”
UC San Diego – History of Philosophy Roundtable Nov 2023
 3. “What Philosophy and Theology Have in Common for Spinoza”
Princeton University – Princeton Project in Philosophy of Religion Workshop May 2023
 2. “Reconceiving Spinoza’s Dogmatism”
Erasmus University Rotterdam – PhD Seminar for Work in Progress Oct 2022
 1. “Epistemic Puzzles in Data and Algorithms”
UC San Diego – Institute for Practical Ethics April 2021

Comments:

3. Comments on TBA
Princeton University – Reason and Revelation in the 17th Century upcoming Oct 2024
 2. Comments on Eric Sheng’s “Gassendi on Happiness”
École Normale Supérieure, Paris – Forum Descartes Jan 2024
 1. Comments on Zachary Gartenberg’s “Spinoza on Faith”
UC San Diego – Modern Philosophy Graduate Workshop May 2022

Guest Lectures:

5. “Alexander Nehamas and Vida Yao on Friendship”
 UCSD – Philosophy of Love and Sex April 2024
 4. “Proofs in Sentential Logic” (×3)
 UCSD – Intro to Logic Nov 2023
 3. “Paley and Hume on the Cosmological Argument”
 SFSU – Philosophy of Religion 2016
 2. “The Book of Genesis”
 SFSU – World Religions 2016
 1. “Descartes’s Search for Truth”
 SFSU – Modern Philosophy 2015

HONORS & AWARDS

11. Dita and Erwin Gumpel Jewish Studies Endowed Fellowship (UCSD) 2022-23
 10. Institute for Arts and Humanities Graduate Summer Fellowship (UCSD) 2022

- | | | |
|----|--|-------------|
| 9. | Institute for Practical Ethics—Summer PhD Fellowship (UCSD) | 2020 |
| 8. | Dean of Arts and Humanities Travel Awards (UCSD) (×5) | 2019-23 |
| 7. | Jason Louis Zarri Philosophy Memorial Scholarship (SFSU) | 2016-17 |
| 6. | Judith Anne Ott Scholarship (SFSU) | Fall 2016 |
| 5. | James Kaufmann College of Liberal & Creative Arts Scholarship (SFSU) | Spring 2016 |
| 4. | Judith Anne Ott Scholarship (SFSU) | Spring 2016 |
| 3. | James Kaufmann College of Liberal & Creative Arts Scholarship (SFSU) | Fall 2015 |
| 2. | Judith Anne Ott Scholarship (SFSU) | Fall 2015 |
| 1. | President’s Scholarship (APU) | 2009-13 |

RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- | | |
|--|-------------|
| Summer Research Assistant to Donald Rutherford
Topic: Spinoza’s metaphysics of normativity | Summer 2018 |
| Research Assistant to Donald Rutherford
(Assisted in editing Oxford Studies in Early Modern Philosophy by creating indexes for volumes 8, 9, 10, and 11; assisted with copy-editing volume 10) | 2018-2022 |
| UCSD Geisel Special Collections and Archive Training | May 2023 |

PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITY & SERVICE

6. Advisory Board Member – UCSD Summer Program for the Advancement of Women in Philosophy (2020-22)
5. Principal Co-organizer. UCSD Modern Philosophy Graduate Workshop: ucsdmodernphil.weebly.com (May 2022)
4. Co-Organizer with Donald Rutherford and Leo Moauro: “Spinoza on Freedom Workshop” at UC San Diego (May 2021)
3. Invited Panelist for “Minorities and Philosophy Grad Life Panel” – University of Massachusetts, Amherst (March 2021)
2. Chair: Session of “Spinoza’s TTP: Politics, Power, and Imagination,” Open University, UK (2021)
1. Chair: Early Modern section of SFSU Undergraduate Philosophy Symposium (2017)

PEDAGOGICAL TRAINING

- | | |
|--|--------------|
| SFSU Graduate Teaching Associate Training - Shelley Wilcox | Jan-May 2016 |
| Revelle College Writing Program Pedagogy Seminar - Stephen Cox | Sep-Dec 2019 |
| UCSD Summer Graduate Teaching Scholars Program | 2024 |

TEACHING EXPERIENCEInstructor of Record:

Philosophy and the Rise of Modern Science – UCSD	Planned for Summer 2024
Intro to Logic – UCSD	Summer 2022
Intro to Philosophy – UCSD Academic Connections (co-taught)	Summer 2019
Medieval Philosophy – San Francisco State University	Spring 2017
Philosophy of Religion – San Francisco State University	Spring 2017
Critical Thinking – San Francisco State University	Fall 2016
Critical Thinking – San Francisco State University	Fall 2016
Critical Thinking – San Francisco State University	Spring 2016
Critical Thinking – San Francisco State University	Spring 2016

Teaching Assistant at UCSD (2017-present):

Philosophy of Love and Sex, w/Patricia Marechal	Spring 2024
Philosophy and the Rise of Modern Science, w/Monte Johnson	Winter 2024
Intro to Logic, w/Jennifer Carr	Fall 2023
Ethics and Society (War, Terrorism, & Complicity), Saba Bazargan-Forward	Fall 2021
Ethics and Society (Liberalism and Justice), w/David Brink	Spring 2021
Intro to Logic, w/Rick Grush	Winter 2021
Ethics and Society (Climate Change), w/Andy Lamey	Fall 2020
Freedom, Equality, and Law, w/Samuel Rickless	Summer 2020
Western Civilization: Rome, Christianity, & Middle Ages, w/ K. Markman	Spring 2020
Western Civilization: Israel & Greece, w/Kristina Markman	Winter 2020
Ethics and Society (Redistribution and Identity), w/Andy Lamey	Spring 2019
Intro to Logic, w/Paolo Santorio	Winter 2019
Ethics and Society (Contemporary Society), w/Manuel Vargas	Fall 2018
Intro to Philosophy: Ethics, w/Andy Lamey	Spring 2018
Intro to Logic, w/Rick Grush	Winter 2018
Ethics and Society (Climate Ethics), w/Andy Lamey	Fall 2017

Teaching Assistant at SFSU:

Modern Philosophy, w/Alice Sowaal	Spring 2015
Philosophy of Religion, w/Michael Sudduth	Spring 2015

LANGUAGES

English, Latin (reading), French (reading, conversational)

DISSERTATION ABSTRACT: Inscribed in Our Hearts': Spinoza on Religion and Rationality

My dissertation analyzes the central argument of Spinoza's Theological-Political Treatise (TTP), namely, how philosophy and theology are separated such that there is no conflict between the two. Many commentators find Spinoza's separation thesis to be inconsistent, which poses a significant problem for the TTP's broader political goal of defending the freedom to philosophize. The predominant approach among scholars is to focus on the separation or suppose the separation thesis exhausts the relationship between philosophy and theology. On this view, any overlap between philosophy and theology is seen as inconsistent with the separation thesis and therefore counts against the overall argument of the TTP.

I argue in this dissertation that philosophy and theology overlap in various ways even while they remain separate in other ways. More concretely, I argue that the divine law 'inscribed' in the human mind, for Spinoza, underlies both philosophy and theology even while divine law is represented differently on each path. The divine law teaches love of God and neighbor from the 'heart,' which on my account means with one's cognition and affects. Given that Spinoza defines virtue as acting in accordance with one's own nature, and the divine law is part of human nature, acting according to the divine law is virtue for Spinoza. Philosophy and theology thus overlap in the end of virtue even while they remain separate in how they cognize the world.

Their joint grounding in God explains why philosophy and theology both utilize the power of the natural light which is an underexamined concept in the TTP. In contrast to the default view, I offer four arguments that the 'natural light' (lumine naturale) is a broader power of inference than 'reason' (ratio). Reason is the power of inference that begins from things known; the natural light is a power of inference that begins from things 'known or given as known.' The distinction between reason and the natural light helps make sense of Spinoza's method of Biblical interpretation, which is a foundational part of how philosophy and theology remain separate. Commentators often accuse Spinoza of 'dogmatism,' the charge that the TTP manipulates the meaning of scripture to make it align with Spinoza's own philosophy. I reconstruct Spinoza's method of Biblical interpretation and argue it uses the power of the natural light, but not reason. Given that reason is the domain of philosophy, theology can use the natural light without infringing on the domain of philosophy. Additionally, I examine Spinoza's conception of canonization, i.e., the process of choosing which books are part of scripture. Though most commentators do not give any weight to the notion, I argue that Spinoza's theory of canonization helps explain how scripture's moral core agrees with philosophy without dogmatism.

The various points of overlap between philosophy and theology help explain long-standing difficulties in scholarship on Spinoza's TTP, namely, the underlying epistemology, the apparent dogmatism in Biblical interpretation, how to conceive religion, the nature of faith, how the theological life provides momentum towards the rational life, and how a faithful person may grow in rationality while remaining virtuous.